

Concord Community TV

MAKING OUR MARK

2004-2005
Annual Report

Channels 6-17-22

schools, local government and the wonderful array of civic organizations. Concord Community TV is a vital part of our community and CCTV strives to serve each and every citizen, community group, school and government entity that wants to get involved and produce programming for the PEG access channels. I am happy to report that during the past year CCTV continued to make its mark in our community and it was a banner year.

Once again CCTV brought you award winning programming. For the third straight year, CCTV producers garnered awards from the Northeast Alliance for Community Media. This year, three programs were judged to be among the very best in all of the New England states and New York. CCTV is proud of this mark of excellence in community television programming.

This year's award-winning programs were all educational in nature. CCTV has worked hard to develop meaningful partnerships with our schools. Cable Channel 6 (The Education Channel) continues to be programmed with an array of school events that are important to not only those involved, but to the entire community. Our schools are important to us and we will continue to engage and make our mark in the educational community.

CCTV's first annual Arts Telefest was held in April and it was a groundbreaking event. Not only did it help CCTV to a record fundraising year, it gave artists and creative people in Concord a new venue to showcase and talk about their work. The second Arts Telefest is in the works and we are pleased to celebrate Concord's arts and culture.

Our partnership with the city remains strong and the programming on the government channel is better than ever. In addition to our expanded coverage of city meetings, this past year CCTV had live coverage of two City Council communication forums where viewers could call in their questions from home. We are making our mark by providing Concord's citizenry with responsive and extensive government programming.

We have seen programming grow on all three Concord Community TV channels. This would not be possible without our professional staff and scores of dedicated producers and volunteers. CCTV is grateful to the many people who volunteer their time to express themselves by making programming for the Concord community. Their commitment demonstrates the vitality and importance of community media. In this way, they are making their mark not only in our community, but also in the national effort to preserve community-based media.

Whether you are a producer, volunteer, supporter or viewer, thank you for the part you play in this splendid community endeavor called Concord Community TV.

Skip Tenczar

With a renewed cable license and a forthcoming new contract, CCTV can plan its future and set its long-term goals, keeping in mind the mission upon which it was established. The future will be better, programming will increase and more organizations will participate.

This past year, Channels 6, 17 and 22 saw a record program and producer totals and CCTV expects more. CCTV Bulletin Boards have become a valuable tool of publicizing information and events. Our age demands more participation and involvement from government entities and residents.

The facility made important technological advances in editing and control room capabilities. In addition, attention in all areas was an easily accepted goal for all producers and volunteers.

A regional and national issue arose during the year that affected the status of all local access centers. The communication companies into the video program in a revisiting of laws and regulations governing broadcast. Congress decides to rewrite these policies might have a positive or negative effect.

CCTV is proud of its role in our community and the participation of all residents, school and government departments and organizations in helping produce programs that promote growth and community awareness. We urge you to support our mission and become involved in our operations as a producer, volunteer or board member.

A NEW MARK
CCTV literally made its mark by unveiling of its new facility. Our facility has a new look for our city and is a new way for residents and organizations to do things the way it can. Within the Concord Community TV, we want every citizen to be their own voice.

public, educational and government information.

When you see our logo, you'll know that CCTV is here to make you aware of all aspects of what our community is doing.

"We all try hard to make our mark in the community. United Way started doing so in 1926 and is still going strong. We're proud to work with the "youngster," CCTV, as it continues its wonderful efforts with so many old and new community organizations."

These fun programs produced by community residents and organizations. In addition, more than 300 guests appeared on CCTV programs.

And in meeting the demands of a growing station, community members have been able to increase the quality and creativity of their programs by using CCTV's new Pinnacle Studio 9 edit software as well as Final Cut Pro's upgraded version.

For those who taped events outside of the studio, our multikit was redesigned to include much lighter and better quality monitors.

Government Channel 17

made its mark in connecting the community with city government as it presented 176 cablecasts of City Council, Planning, and Zoning Board meetings, as well as programs featuring the Mayor, Fire Department, Recreation Department, City Manager, etc.

"CCTV has made a mark in Concord by being the place to go to find out what is happening in city government. Between the City Council, Planning Board and Zoning Board meetings to the locally produced shows that tell us how to register our dogs, recycle our trash and what and how our elected leaders plan for the city, CCTV is the place of first contact. If you want to know what is what in the city of Concord, CCTV is the place of first resort-the infoline for citizens with questions."

*Katherine Rogers
Concord City Councilor*

Interim City Manager tapes during a tour of Orchard for a special event to be aired on the Government Channel 17.

Education Channel 6

made its mark in cablecasting 241 programs of educational value, featuring school events and sports, as well as programs like "Chalk Talk," produced by the Concord Education Association.

"A healthy and vibrant community depends on the quality of its schools. And now more than ever the lines of communication between the community and Concord's schools must be firmly established. CCTV helps to make that link by featuring programming that informs the community of events and initiatives occurring in the schools of our city. This is a valuable service that benefits us all, in particular Concord's children."
