Message from the Director and Board Chair

Julianne Turner

Anthony "Skip" Tenczar

This past year has been an exciting one at Concord TV. We have implemented equipment and technology upgrades, expanded our volunteer base, continued our community outreach efforts with yet another successful Arts Telefest and much more.

In October of 2007 Concord TV held a well-attended community Open House. At the event, we shared our new expanded facility with the community. Attendees saw Concord TV's brand new equipment, including our new digital server used to program our three community channels.

Following the event, we introduced our new website, complete with city and school board meetings, as well as other Concord TV produced programming which is available on demand through the Streaming Video tab at the top of the page.

The expansion of our volunteer and independent producer base has been an ongoing goal for Concord TV and we are proud of our progress in FY07-08. Our training program has been particularly successful: seventy-one people came in for Orientation, we offered thirty-six classes, and three video camps for kids. As a result of our ongoing training efforts, Concord TV's facilities are well used on a daily basis. More producers than ever are venturing outside of the studio and mastering the art of field camera and digital editing.

The increased use of equipment and facilities has meant an increase in the hours of programming on Concord TV. In FY07-08 there was a 70% increase in original programming hours on Channel 22 alone, with a total of 5,849 hours of programming shown throughout the year. The remainder of time on Channel 22 is dedicated to our community bulletin board, which serves the communication needs of many Concord nonprofit organizations and community groups.

The Concord TV staff has been busy with production, as well. We have been keeping our community connected with coverage of community events, city government and school district happenings. In fact, Concord TV produced 355 hours of original programming in FY07-08.

We have also been participating with national and regional community programming organizations. We have remained active in the New Hampshire Coalition for Community Media and the Alliance For Community Media. ACM continues to be an important voice for community media in Washington and an important watchdog to guard against legislation that could harm community television across the country.

Concord TV is well positioned to continue to provide valuable community television to Concord residents and we look forward to another year of keeping Concord connected. We invite you to get involved with Concord TV.

Keeping Current

Connecting Through Technology

In January of 2008 the City Council Chambers underwent a much needed equipment upgrade. Concord TV invested in four brand new high quality robotic cameras and replaced old equipment that was installed almost 10 years prior. What an improvement!

Jean Michael Laurent is seen operating the new equipment at a School Board meeting.

Concord TV invested significantly in the School Board Chambers with the installation of robotic cameras and studio equipment in November 2007. Coverage of these meetings are now professional, with perhaps the most significant upgrade being with the audio, now that each board member has their own desktop microphone.

Connecting through www.yourconcordtv.org

Our new website has a fresh look with rotating photographs showing volunteers and independent producers at work. Added features to the site include class and workshop schedules, a Concord TV store, channel schedules and video on demand; A valuable tool helping citizens who wish to look up a portion of a meeting or who missed the meeting live and wish to view it at their leisure. It also serves as an important community archive, viewable by people all over the world.

*Whether covering election news,
good books or health care,
Concord TV has shown itself to be the voice of the community and deserves all of our support.*

State Senator Sylvia Larsen

Programming

Over the past year Concord TV has seen a lot happen in terms of programming on its three channels. Public Access Channel 22 has seen a number of new locally produced programs, including Capitol Access, Disabilities Rights Center Presents, Effective Interpersonal Skills, Half Hour to Health, Pastor's Forum, and Straight Talk with Realtor Brenda. Channel 22 has also benefited from the addition of a new satellite receiver in our facility, which has allowed us to bring Concord shows such as 'Classic Arts Showcase', and the daily independent news program 'Democracy Now'.

Capitol Access

Disabilities Rights Center

Government Channel 17, home to information from the City of Concord including City Council, Zoning, and Planning Board meetings, also received a wealth of other new programming this year. Keeping residents informed were programs such as a tour of the Hall St. Wastewater Treatment Facility (seen in photo), an informational program on the new Roundabout in the white Park Area, and 'We Are Serious About Fun', a show about the various activities available from the Concord Recreation Department.

Channel 6, Concord's Educational Channel, broadcasts a wide breadth of programming produced by the many schools in the District. In addition to covering the School Board's monthly meeting, Concord TV expanded its coverage to include Instructional Committee & Capital Facilities Meetings. Channel 6 was also the place to watch CHS Sports, including Boys & Girls Soccer, Football, Volleyball, Hockey and Track Meets. Beaver Meadow School provided a particularly large amount of content, including its monthly Town Meetings as well as the "Real World Teaching Conference" and performances of various plays and musicals, such as 'Broadway Cafe'.

Training

In 2007 we began offering regular classes at the station, including classes on the basic of operating cameras, editing footage on the computer, and studio production using the new equipment. Over thirty community members have taken advantage of the camera class alone, a number that continues to grow. We also started expanding into the local schools, beginning with a small session of ten elementary school children and growing from there.

Community Connected

I loved Concord TV camp! It was so much fun. Everything I learned during the week was new to me. My favorite part was using the Concord TV studio, both being on the air and working behind the scenes. The teachers were great. I had an amazing time.

Youth Video Camps

Summer of 2007 we began our video camps for middle-school students. There, the children learned about cameras, studio work, and editing. They even made their own short films and music videos. What began as a few interested kids in the summer of 2007 grew to multiple sessions in the spring and summer of 2008, all of them running at full capacity. Many of the campers had so much fun that they continue to help us out as volunteers here at the station.

On behalf of my daughter, I thank you for providing her such a great week of learning and fun in conjunction with the Concord TV staff members and your youth education program elements. Your studios continue to present as a steady community resource and I am grateful for your willingness and skillful ability to foster both technical learning foundations and developmentally creative opportunities for area youngsters. Encouraging and inspiring youngsters with meaningful vehicles for learning, self-expression and communication with the broader community is indeed time well spent.

Terri Smith

Interns

As a small staff of just four full time employees, Concord TV is thankful for all of our volunteers, especially our interns. Thanks to the hard work and countless hours of individuals like Nate Bobowski, Moriah Brown, Dennis Fraser, Jeremy Kingwill, Jean-Michael Laurent, Cassandra Miller, Michael Miller, AJ Nolin, Alan Schulte, Steve Shannon, and Justin Tracy, we have been able to increase the quality of the channels and expand our local coverage.

Concord TV is a great environment to be in, and a great way to learn the ins and outs of broadcast television. It's a great sense of accomplishment you get knowing you're helping inform and entertain the greater Concord community.

2008 Arts Telefest Connecting the Arts

Once again, the Arts Telefest connected artists, arts organizations, schools, businesses, volunteers and community leaders, and aimed the spotlight directly on our City's creative side.

From painters and potters, to performers and playwrights, Concord TV's fourth annual Arts Telefest, which took place on Sunday, April 6, featured 72 talented artists during a 12-hour, nonstop, live event that was aired on Channels 22 and 6.

Special Events

Open House

On October 30, Concord TV held an Open House in celebration of its newly expanded facility. Visitors were given a tour and were able to see the new equipment in action. Mayor Michael Donovan assisted Executive Director Julianne Turner in the unveiling of the new Concord TV signage and logo.

Concord High School and the New Hampshire Primary

In January, just a few days before the New Hampshire Presidential Primary, Concord TV joined forces with Concord High School to broadcast live a campaign visit of Senator Barack Obama. The event was crewed entirely by Concord High students, and was broadcast live to Concord residents. The students got a chance to work alongside major news networks and the rally was expanded beyond the confines of the crowded school gym to the entire community.

“As a Junior in High School I was very grateful to be granted the opportunity to direct the filming of Barack Obama. It is very special that our school is visited by so many people capable of changing the world on a grand scheme. It was inspirational and helped to focus my goals for the future. Having this experience helped me decide to pursue television and film production in college and hopefully as a career. I thank Concord TV for allowing their equipment to be used by high school students and the community. Filming Barack Obama is an experience I will remember the rest of my life.”

Alex Pickering

Legacy Letters

Concord TV, in collaboration with resident writers and memoirists from Havenwood-Heritage Heights' Write Group, premiered a video screening of "Legacy Letters" on January 23 at Red River Theatres.

"Legacy Letters," are letters written to today's high school students in which life lessons learned by senior citizens in their individual lives are described and passed along with the hope and intention that the students will absorb a particular message that will speak to a problem or situation currently facing them.

"Thirteen letters were written, each with a diverse message," says Mary Lou Fuller, also a Havenwood-Heritage Heights resident, who guided the writing group as part of Concord TV's "Legacy Letters" pilot program. Fuller, a local author and public speaker, has been leading the Havenwood-Heritage Heights' Write Group since 2006.
